Seven-Year Fight Meets Delay Again

Subversive Board Told To Give Party Witness' Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today applied the controversial Jencks case rule to the government's effort to label the Communist party as a tool of Moscow. On that ground, it granted the party at least another delay.

The ruling was that the government, in its action before the Subversive Activities Control Board, must give the party access to reports which a key witness made to the FBI. If it is to rely on that witness' testimony.

The order follows the theory adopted by the Supreme Court last June when it reversed the conviction of Clinton Jencks, former labor leader, on charges of filing a false non-Communist affidavit under the Taft-Hartley Act. The high court ruling was that the government had to make available to the defense statements filed with the FBI by two key prosecution witnesses.

'Unified' Control For 'Space Age' Development Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today gave Congress an eight-point "safety through strength" program for dealing with the Russian space age threat. It included defense reorganization to unify control and end interservice rivalries.

In his State of the Union message, Eisenhower said America's military strength at present is great and is a powerful deterrent to war.

But he said the dangers the United States faces are real, and unequal warning facilities in case less we act wisely and promptly of attack.

"We could lose that capacity to defend ourselves" and deter any Soviet attack.

Cites Economic Danger

The President, in an address carried on television and radio, said the country could make no more tragic mistake "than to concentrate merely on military strength."

That, he said, could lead to an age of terror.

Of even greater danger than the military threat posed by Russia's space era advances, Eisenhower said, is a massive economic offensive already launched by the Soviet Union against the United States and the rest of the free world.

Through increases in pay and incentive, we must maintain in the armed forces the skilled manpower modern military forces require.

Must Be Forward-Looking

The Senate and House assembled in joint session in the House chamber to hear the President deliver his message personally.

With these and other improvements, we intend to assure that our vigilance, power, and technical excellence keep abreast of any realistic threat we face."

3. Continuation and strengthening of the mutual security program of the United States—foreign aid, if the foundations of the free world structure "were progressively allowed to crumble under the pressure of Communist imperialism (the entire house of freedom would be in danger of collapse."

He added: "The real fact is that no investment we make in our own security and peace can pay us greater dividends than necessary amounts of economic aid to friendly nations."

"This is no 'give-away.' 'Let's stick to facts!'"

"We cannot afford to have one of our most essential security programs shot down with a slogan!"

Extend Trade Act

4. Foreign trade — Eisenhower urged Congress to extend the Reciprocity Trade Act for five years. He said world trade "strengthens our friends and increases their desire to be friends," and added: "As President McKinley said, as long ago as 1901: 'Isolation is no longer possible or desirable.'"

"The period of exclusiveness is past."

5. Scientific cooperation with our allies—Eisenhower called for approval of legislation to permit the sharing of atomic secrets with friendly nations.

"We cannot afford to cut ourselves off from the brilliant talents and minds of scientists in friendly countries," he said.

"The tasks ahead will be hard enough without handcuffs of our own making."

6. Education and research—noting he had outlined previously a broad program calling for spending about a billion dollars annually for four years to strengthen educational and research facilities, Eisenhower said:

Can Reach Goal

"With this kind of all-inclusive campaign, I have no doubt that today's worst snowstorms in we can create the intellectual capers. The freeze struck a fresh hit we need for the years ahead, blow at previously damaged Florida crops."

The mercury slid below zero in pawns, but as free men and womankind and western Pennsylvania.

Nearly half Florida's potential orange crop was wiped out by a hard freeze also was forecast for most of the Gulf states.

The center of a storm that dumped up to 19½ inches of snow in parts of the northeastern United States moved into eastern Canada, losing much of its punch.

The storm was blamed for 35 deaths.

Russ Warns U. S. On Turkish Bases

MOSCOW (AP)—Red Star said today that U. S. atomic and rocket bases on Turkish soil would be subject to devastating retaliation in case of war.

Red Star, the Defense Ministry's newspaper, charged that the United States was trying to turn Turkey into a bridgehead of aggression against the Soviet Union.

The paper charged that U. S. preparations in Turkey "are spearheaded against the Soviet Union and American rocket bases are being set up in Turkey exclusively to enable the United States to attack the Soviet Union from near-by."

Don't Care About Turkey

"Washington apparently does not care a whit what happens to Turkey, but the rulers of Turkey at least should give the matter some thought," it said.

This new attack on Turkey came after a lull of about six weeks of a campaign against Russia's neighbor.

The last warning to Turkey came in a note from Premier Nikolai Bulganin to the Turkish government on Nov. 26. It claimed that the Turks were planning an attack against Syria.

Artificial War Scare

When the Russians brought the charges up in the United Nations last fall, Western spokesmen labeled the Soviet campaign an "artificial war scare."

Soviet leaders said only last week that they regarded the Syrian-Turkish crisis closed with the transfer of Marshal Rokossovsky from the Turkish border command back to Moscow.

Community Acts By Church Cited

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The church—especially the city church—must go out into the community around it and serve the people it finds there, the final study session of the United Church of Christ's convocation was told today.

The three-day convocation—first nationally since the Evangelical and Reformed and Congregational Christian churches merged in 1957—is studying the problems of churches in cities. About 600 ministers and laymen are here.

Indians Ban New Canada Dollar As 'Death Money'

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—That new Canadian dollar may just be more wampum to the white folks, but to West Coast Indians it's memloose chicken, death money.

The design for the new dollar, struck to commemorate the British Columbia centennial this year, was submitted by Stephen Trenka of Thornhill, Ont.

Trenka used a totem pole motif which he said was inspired by the raven myth of the Haida Indians of British Columbia.

Then Guy Williams, a spokesman for the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia, saw the coin. He said it pictured the Tsimpsian Indian mortuary totem, which has as its crowning figure the likeness of a bear mother and her son.

Therefore, Williams said, the dollar was memloose chicken, death money, and no West Coast Indian would dare handle the new coin.

Williams is supported by Mrs. Ellen Neel of Vancouver, an authority on the vanishing art of totem carving.

Even if the new coin's design is derived from the raven myth, it is not suitable, Mrs. Neel contends.

Gavin's Plans To Retire Get Army's Okeh

Brucker Attempted To Retain Services Of Defense Critic

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin's request for retirement has been approved by the Secretary of the Army, Brucker, after a final effort to keep the critic of defense policies in uniform.

"I have done my best to persuade him to stay," Brucker said in announcing that he had "reluctantly" approved Gavin's application to retire March 31 after completing 30 years of Army service.

Decision Final

Gavin, chief of Army research and development, earlier in the day had told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee his decision to retire was final. Brucker said he made one more try at getting Gavin to change his mind, even after the general had taken this position.

Spurning Pentagon offers of promotion to full general within 14 months and a choice of two assignments until then, Gavin told senators: "I can do better for the Army outside than in."

Position Deteriorates

"He spoke of the Army's position as deteriorating rapidly."

He complained that Army strength and budget allocations have been whittled down over the past four years while Russian strength has been growing. He contends the Army needs thousands of planes, missiles and much more freedom in planning.

A number of Congress members have expressed concern over Gavin's plan to retire, saying officers of his caliber are needed badly now.

Genetics Experts Favor Swapping Pants For Kilts

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—All men who think in terms of future generations should swap their heat-producing pants for kilts, say three outstanding Swedish geneticists after extensive research.

Their report will be published soon in the British scientific journal Nature.

They found a "dangerous" increase in the frequency of genetic mutations because of higher temperatures produced by the wearing of modern tight pants. A genetic mutation causes children to differ from the characteristics of their parents to some noticeable degree, usually in an abnormal way.

The doctors estimated the genetic risks resulting from pants are 100 to 1,000 times greater than that from radioactivity.

They recommended more ventilation, obtainable with kilts or the like.

Bank President, 70, Routs Young Robbers

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—Five Indiana youths, stopped from a bank robbery attempt by a 70-year-old bank president wielding a gun with 30-year-old bullets, were being held here under $25,000 bond each today.

Bank President Clyde Bratcher routed them by firing two shots.

Cash Outlay Cut In FHA Homes Move

Some Lower Discount Allowed; Steps Taken To Speed Up Building

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration has taken steps that will reduce the cash outlay for FHA-financed homes and permit higher discounts on some home mortgages. In some other areas the discount limit was lowered.

Some Prosecutions Dropped

Some prosecutions have been dropped by the government on the basis of the Jencks case, rather than release material which federal officials contend would identify secret agents, disclose investigation methods and close information sources.

Congress passed a special law aimed to soften some of the effects. But in criminal cases the defense can still see such reports after the court has screened out nonrelevant material, for a check on the credibility of a witness' court testimony.

The Appeals Court applied the same rule to SACB testimony by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward who served for years as an FBI undercover agent within the Communist party.

Today's order requires further proceedings by the government in the seven-year effort to make the Communist party register as an agent of Moscow. The SACB has held that it must do so.

Two Alternatives

This apparently left the board with the alternative of eliminating Mrs. Markward's testimony from the record and writing another report, or conducting further hearings.

Opera Singer Leaves Rome

ROME (INS)—Soprano Maria Callas departed from Rome today amid the kind of scene—a near riot—her every appearance has caused since she refused to continue singing a week ago at the opening of the Rome opera season.

Photographers and reporters tangled with policemen as the week by pranksters' firecrackers, singer and her wealthy husband, Giovanni Battista Meneghini, boarded a train for Milan.

She seemed tired from her old cocker Grubby in her car last Rome ordeal. She complained: "The opera house didn't even say goodbye. I haven't heard anything from them regarding my letters."

Asked today whether she would aged and her dog defamed by come back to Rome she just firecrackers thrown into the vehicle.

Hard Labor, $90 Fine Airman Gets Jail Term In Korean Girl Shooting

KUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Airman Edward L. Young of Philo, Ohio, was sentenced today to three months at hard labor and a fine of $90 for the fatal shooting of a Korean girl at a bomb dump he was guarding.

The 20-year-old airman was convicted of assault with a dangerous weapon. A more serious charge of involuntary manslaughter was dropped by the general court-martial.

Another airman on guard with Young at the time, Carroll D. Taylor of Cincinnati, Ohio, was convicted Dec. 11 of assault with a dangerous weapon, and sentenced to nine months in prison.

Textbook Case Goes To Court

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The California attorney general filed anti-trust charges yesterday against six publishers of school textbooks. He also demanded they be fined.

The complaint charged the publishers conspired to boycott the State of California by refusing to lease their plates to the state for printing textbooks.

At issue is the state's system of renting the printing plates and producing textbooks in the state-owned printing plant in Sacramento for distribution to the schools.

The Points:

1. Defense reorganization — Eisenhower, obviously with interservice rivalries in mind, said the nation's first need is to assure that military organization speeds rather than hinders the functioning of the military establishment.

Eisenhower will have specific proposals in a special defense message later.

Doesn't Point Finger

Eisenhower did not point a finger at any individual or service, he said.

"I am not attempting today to pass judgment on the charge of harmful service rivalries. But one thing is sure. Whatever they are, America wants them stopped."

2. Accelerated defense effort — Eisenhower called for a speedup all along the line, including production and further dispersal of Canada's Living Standard Found Far Below U. S.

OTTAWA (AP)—A university professor's study says average living standards in Canada are higher than in Britain or the rest of Western Europe but 20 to 30 per cent below the United States.

Prof. David W. Slater of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., prepared the report for the Gordon Royal Commission surveying Canada's economic prospects. It was made public today.

Slater said living standard differences are greatest in ownership of such durable consumer goods as refrigerators, cars and televisions sets. Canadian consumer prices are substantially higher than U. S. prices because of higher taxes and tariffs plus greater distribution costs in the smaller market, the study added.

Atlantic Gales Disrupt Ship, Plane Traffic

LONDON (AP)—Atlantic gales today drove a British submarine and a motorship aground, disrupted transatlantic plane flights and killed at least three persons.

The sailing of the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary was delayed in Southampton.

All three deaths reported were in Scotland. The captain of a fishing trawler was washed overboard. At Cowdenbath a man and his wife were killed when a brick wall was blown over and crashed their home.

American Mothers United With Sons Jailed By Reds

HONG KONG (AP)—An American mother was reunited today Mrs. Downey and a younger son in Shanghai with her son imprisoned for life by the Chinese Communists on espionage charges. She was released since 1952 on a life sentence on espionage charges.

Hugh, a 38-year-old former businessman in Shanghai, has been held by the Reds since 1951.

Another mother, Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., also saw her son, John, in a prison, until their Chinese visas expire at Peiping, it was reported from Jan. 19.

Senator Asks Ike To Show Peace Desire

Sparkman Requests U. S. Demonstration Of Positive Nature

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) today urged President Eisenhower to give the world a "positive demonstration" of the U. S. desire for peace.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Eisenhower should let Russian Premier Bulganin and all the world know the United States "always stands ready to negotiate our differences."

The Alabama senator spoke in an interview before the scheduled appearance of Secretary of State Dulles at a closed door meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"If Secretary Dulles was talking exclusively of talks at the heads of state level, I agree," Sparkman said.

Air Force Plans Trial Of Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Weather permitting, the Air Force probably will attempt a test launching of its 5,000-mile-range Atlas ballistic missile tomorrow.

Forecasts were for warmer temperatures — welcome news to launching crews struggling against near-freezing weather — and for diminishing winds.

Gales whistling across the cape's sand flats at up to 30 m.p.h. forced cancellation of a launching attempt yesterday.

The Air Force conducted its first wholly successful launching of an Atlas Dec. 17.

The weapon climbed about 20 miles, then streaked 600 miles across the missile test range in the Atlantic and hit what the Defense Department called a pre-selected target area.

The Atlas is designed to deliver a nuclear warhead from one continent to another at more than 10,000 miles an hour. First tests

It got to the Supreme Court once, but was sent back for further proceedings without reaching the question of constitutionality of the law. The Supreme Court told the to give party lawyers another chance to test their credibility.

The board eliminated the testimony of the three witnesses and got out a new report, again holding that the U. S. Communist party is substantially dominated and controlled by Moscow.

In view of the court action today, the case is more than likely to come back to the Court of Appeals once more and eventually reach the Supreme Court again.

Civic Leader Admits $964 Bank Stickup

MORRIS, Ill. (AP)—A 50-year-old civic leader and member of one of Morris' most prominent families voluntarily surrendered yesterday and admitted the $964 stickup of a nearby bank.

"I couldn't sleep with my conscience and I was afraid I'd get caught," Maynard Davis was quoted as telling Sheriff John Olson of Grundy County.

Davis, father of three children, is a painting contractor, a member of the Morris school board, a church member and an active participant in Parent-Teacher Assn. and other school activities.

Davis' brother W. Clark Davis is coroner of Grundy County; another brother, James, is a Morris alderman; and a third brother, Gordon, has announced his candidacy for Grundy County sheriff.

Morris is about 65 miles southwest of Chicago.

Police set up a roadblock after a lone gunman held up the bank at nearby Seneca Tuesday, forced two employees into a back room and fled in a car. Davis was handed by the roadblock, but police waved him through after recognizing him.

Davis surrendered after a news story appeared in the Morris Herald saying police had obtained a clear fingerprint of the gunman left on the knob of the door in the back room of the bank.

Sheriff Olson quoted Davis as saying he was deeply in debt and needed money to pay off his creditors.

Davis gave the sheriff $757 in cash and said he had spent the rest of the loot.

8. Works of peace — Eisenhower said:

"My last call for action is not primarily addressed to the Congress and people of the United States. Rather, it is a message from the people of the United States to all other peoples, especially those of the Soviet Union."

"This is the spirit of what we would like to say: 'In the last analysis, there is only one solution to the grim problems that lie ahead. The world must stop the present plunge toward more and more destructive weapons of war, and turn the corner that will start our steps firmly on the path toward lasting peace.'

"Our greatest hope for success lies in a universal fact: The people of the world, as people, have always wanted peace and want peace now."

"The problem, then, is to find a way of translating this universal desire into action."

"This will require more than words of peace. It requires works of peace."

In ending his address, the President said the actions he had outlined would call on the American people for both sacrifice and a high degree of understanding.

Generals Stage Peaceful Revolt Against Ike Judgment

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like a revolt of the generals—peaceful, but a revolt—against the judgment of their commander in chief, President Eisenhower. The very timing of it may have shocked or angered him.

The nation has waited weeks—since Russia showed it was ahead in missiles by launching the Sputniks—to see what Eisenhower intended to do about matching the Soviets or trying to get ahead of them.

Today—in his State of the Union message to Congress—was his first chance to lay out his plans formally and publicly. Before he could deliver the message, two top generals blasted his administration's planning.

The two cut loose yesterday. They were Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, the Army's chief of research and development, and Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff.

It's usual in Washington to see the heads of the three branches of the armed forces complain to Congress they need more money. But the Gavin-White complaints went beyond the usual.

In the first place, this is not the typical postwar year when this country had clear-cut military superiority. It's a critical year when the American future may depend on the plans made this year.

Second, both generals know Eisenhower has been under heavy criticism for the lag in American missile development and that he is expected to do the utmost in his plans to make up for lost time.

Third, they put his 1958 programs under suspicion before he had a chance to announce them. For instance, both attacked his budget—the money he wants to spend—although he won't reveal his budget to Congress until Monday.

So far as is known neither general volunteered his opinion. Both were called to testify before the Senate's Preparedness Subcommittee which has been investigating American defenses since the Sputniks went up.

Gavin went so far beyond the usual military man's complaint about needing more money that he is retiring from the Army. One of the reasons he gives is that he could not defend the amount of money Eisenhower will ask for Army research.

The Army's position, Gavin told Johnson, Texas Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee, is deteriorating rapidly and "I can't do anything about it." He added that "I can do better outside the Army than in."

And he said that the Soviet Army is far superior now to the American. He said the Army needs missiles, thousands of airplanes, and equipment.

White, like Gavin, testified behind closed doors. Sen. Lyndon B.

OUR COUNTRY
The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union for ever.—MORRIS.

Compromise Program

THE YEAR 1958 will not see a tiresome re-run of the old battles over federal aid to education. The Eisenhower administration this time has spread the nation's educational problems across a much wider canvas. Russia's leap into science leadership is responsible. It shocked us into sudden awareness of our shortcomings in this field. Educators, of course, will not be satisfied with the President's 1-billion-dollar program (which calls also for 600 million from the states). Seldom does a budget allotment wholly please those most directly involved. But the program is a frank recognition that our problem is deadly serious, and an evidence of the administration's determination to do something substantial about it—even if not all that the critics would like.

THE PROPOSAL to provide money for some 10,000 scholarships is intended to strike at one of our most pressing dilemmas, the failure of thousands of well qualified youngsters to go on to college or to complete such training. Lack of funds appears to be the prime reason. The suggested bigger appropriation for the National Science Foundation also would seem very much in order. This organization already has proved its worth. And no one needs to be told that we must take all avenues that may lead reasonably to an improvement in our science training.

SOME OF THE program's critics want a more lavish outlay, and consequently assail the administration's effort to shape a plan they believe is governed by insistence on a balanced budget. The exact size of the wisest possible program is naturally always a debatable matter. But it is a fact that no administration can totally ignore the relationship between one specific set of proposals and its various other programs, or between that plan and the full budget. This is true even in the emergency of war, when competing demands, all of them reflecting vital purposes, crowd in upon one another. The President's new educational program is therefore a compromise. In that there is no surprise. What we must all hope is that it is a good compromise. The price of a bad one could be heavy.

A LABOR union executive recommends that bartenders give customers counsel and advice instead of engaging them in aimless persiflage. Usually bartenders are on the receiving end, depending on how well-oiled the customers have become.

A Good Start

ONE OF THE QUIET events of the New Year was the coming into being of the so-called European Common Market, an organization whose supreme purpose is the gradual wiping out of tariffs and other trade barriers among six continental nations of Western Europe. Under present plans, the stripping away of these restrictions will take 12 to 15 years. In the first year, probably not too much will be accomplished. But when the process is over, Western Europe will in important respects stand as an economic unit, a free trade federation tailored for the first time in its history to the wire-mark necessities of the modern mass production age. It is significant, too, that the architects of this plan look well beyond the mere making of a customs union. They foresee the day when not only goods but services, capital and labor forces will move freely across the international borders of Germany, The Netherlands, France, Italy, Belgium and Luxembourg. The most imaginative of Europe's statesmen further envision that the inescapable accompaniment of this gradual transition to economic unity will be some form of political unity—a United States of Europe. Today's industrial civilization demands the broad scale, both for production and consumption. Moreover, the free world needs combinations of people and resources for maximum strength and hence for safety. The goal of the European Common Market is at once noble and practical.

NEW YORK'S Mayor Wagner, pleased at being re-elected by a record majority but now plagued by strikes, threatened strikes and other accumulated harrassments, may wonder whether his jubilation was justified.

How to Torture Your Husband

Doris Fleson No Room For Politics In Defense Effort

WASHINGTON—The most important contribution to come from the returned Congress will be its prolonged and insistent airing of the position in which the country has been placed by the achievements of the Soviet Union.

In that endeavor Congressional leaders will have the help and support of important segments of business and industry, including the vital area of communications. A deep concern is felt in such circles with respect to recent developments. It has not been allayed by White House optimism nor daunted by efforts to muffle all alarms in a blanket of security.

LAST WEEKEND, for example, saw publication of a Rockefeller Fund report predicting a world balance of power shift to the Soviet Union within two years unless the United States acts immediately. The panel of laymen, industrialists and military leaders recommended a broad corrective program including a three billion dollar annual increase in defense spending. The news media, including TV, were heavily weighted with this and related stories. Congress will vote new defense funds in an amount falling probably between the Eisenhower and Rockefeller suggestions. And it will keep talking and developing the story in public as it unfolds.

AS NEARLY as anything done by Congress can be devoid of partisan politics, this effort will be. Certain members will get out of line, but leaders on both sides are already in agreement that substantial amendment in the American position is a must.

In most other respects the prolonged session now in prospect will be quarrelsome and divisive. The most controversial issues will cut across party lines, and the personal bitterness directed at a Republican President is largely Republican.

The President's proposal to extend the reciprocal trade agreements for five years illustrates the tangled nature of coming battles. Reciprocal trade will be in charge of a Southern moderate, Representative Hale Boggs, Louisiana Democrat. The fight on it will be led by a conservative Republican, Representative Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania.

YET THE first thing Boggs wants to do is to find out who slipped into the President's draft a tariff base taken from the old

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, says. "Based on considerable analysis, the logistics-by-air is one of the most promising applications for nuclear propulsion."

"A development of this kind," he added, "would eliminate the need for intermediate staging stops as well as reduce greatly the overseas fuel storage requirements."

Unfortunately work on a nuclear plane has been lagging for the past couple of years. There is no sign of a speed-up.

HIBBARD revealed that there is a "ray of hope" for solving the complex problems a pilot has trying to navigate over a battlefield under conditions of poor visibility.

"It's a recently declassified development being sponsored by the Navy called the Contact Analogue System. In this the pilot sees a presentation on a flat TV tube, rather than being required to interpret dozens of instrument dials. Input data from altimeters, radars and other instruments are integrated and displayed on the screen so as to construct an artificial duplicate of the actual scene ahead of the airplane."

Work on this project is also in serious need of more funds.

Furnas said of dependence on tactical atomic weapons: "I should like to urge the use of very great discretion in the use of nuclear warheads, if we should become involved in another limited war. If the United States should use one first, the negative propaganda impact on the rest of the world would be tremendous. We should not fire it unless we are psychologically and physically prepared to go the whole way through World War III, if necessary."

The highest duty to his country—the greatest sacrifice, greater even than continuing in office at tremendous cost to his (Eisenhower's) health, is clear—to resign temporarily and permit the Vice President to take over as acting President the powers and duties of the office.

—Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

The greatest foreign policy need of the United States during the next 50 years is federal aid to education.

—Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.).

Whitney Bolton Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—A man I once met, and therefore could not possibly claim as a friend, was killed in a horrible and unpleasant way the other day.

A girl driving a stolen car at 100 miles an hour smashed into his low-slung little sports car and not much was left of either the man or the car.

This is cited not as stale news, but as my card to membership in what I hope is a growing club. I belong—as did this man—to a sort of loosely-organized association of slightly-gang men and women who have decided that life is worth considerably more than driving in excess of 60 miles an hour at any time on any in-viting, wide-open super-highway.

Actually, the innocent victim of this tragic crash was doing, police estimate, about 38 miles an hour on a 40-mile-an-hour parkway.

MEMBERSHIP in the unincorporated new group is based on willingness to make a test. You drive a car at prescribed speeds from your house to your destination and check your elapsed time against the time it used to take you when you revved things up when the police weren't looking.

I live in a town which prescribes 30 miles an hour, in half a mile you get onto a 35 mph road, and in four miles more onto a 40 mph parkway which, after passing over the Triborough Bridge, becomes a 35 mph driveway and, in turn, a 25 mph city street.

I did it at noon the other day, heaving exactly to the speed limit its designated and it took me an hour and 10 minutes to get to my office in New York. Here, therefore, I'd been doing 45 to 50 on the 40 mph parkway and as much as 45 on the 35 and 25 mile-an-hour areas. It always took almost precisely the same: one hour and 15 minutes.

In short, I saved five minutes by keeping a steady, legal pace instead of speeding up when I could and slowing down when I had to.

I HAVE FOUND that traversing the New Jersey Turnpike from the George Washington Bridge entry to the exit near the Delaware Memorial Bridge is easier at the legal 60 miles-an-hour, and keeping to the right lane when possible, than "judging up to 65 or more, keeping a wary eye out for police cars and arriving tense and weary at the other end. I've even done it loafing along at 55 and getting glares from temporarily slowed-down fellow motorists.

I don't want to sound like Virtuous Sam, the Pious Motorist.

"BUT IT ISN'T much good," he said, as we cruised Third Avenue at a comely 20 miles-an-hour, "to belong to an outfit like this one and have a crazy kid in a stolen load burn you down at 100 miles an hour."

That poor fellow the other day was only loafing along, when she knifed into him and strewn the pieces for a quarter of a mile. What about that kind of eventuality?

Nothing about it. It happens and you can only hope it doesn't happen to you.

Frederick Othman Needed: Solons With Wit

WASHINGTON—Here they're barely back at work and already I'm snarling at the statesmen. Gently, that is.

There's hardly a smiling face at the second session of the 85th Congress: the gentlemen this time are almost solidly sourpusses. This is bad, though I suppose you can't much blame 'em.

They're worrying about Sputniks and ICBMs (the lack of) and how many more billions they'll have to spend to stand off those Russians. The gents also are pestered about taxes (Raise 'em? Lower 'em?) and what to do about agriculture, and I swear to look at 'em there in their respective chambers, you'd think the world was on the verge.

PERHAPS it is, but this I still doubt, and a little cheerfulness on Capitol Hill might help in getting done what undoubtedly is one of the biggest legislative jobs yet. The trouble is, we're fresh out of witty legislators.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, the majority leader, is a sober-sided for sure. Senator William F. Knowland, the minority leader, may be a happy man deep down inside, but he usually manages to look glum. Speaker Sam Rayburn is no wit, though Joseph Martin, the minority leader in the House, does manage to get off an occasional good crack.

Every day, said the gentleman from Wiliston, he got string beans at lunch. He said that he was sick of 'em.

He also got up one afternoon to tell his fellow statesmen about how he'd bought a long tail coat and gone out howling to some of the capital's celebrated parties. He got choked in his hard-boiled shirt; his pants were too tight, and the hostesses worked too dang hard stuffing cocktails into his hand. Burdick said he guessed he'd give his fancy coat to the ash man.

ANOTHER time some years ago the Representatives were all excited about how to protect themselves from gunmen: some Puerto Ricans had just shot up their chamber and the lawgivers were talking seriously about surrounding themselves with bullet-proof glass.

That's when Burdick regaled them with an account of how they looked ducking behind chairs and falling on their faces while the bullets flew. He suggested it might be a good idea to make visitors check their shooting irons before entering. Nothing more was said about putting the House Representatives under glass.

Hal Boyle Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—What are they doing to the wild, Wild West and that saddle-sore hero of yore—the American cowboy?

In both the movies and television this emblem of American masculinity has fallen upon sad times.

One who knew him in his prime has a hankering, now and then, to see him climb aboard old Pinto for the last time, turn and wave farewell, and canter off into oblivion.

That way, at least, the cowboy could retain some of his former dignity—and the fiction writers could drum up a new hero, such as the missile jockey or the space ranger.

What am I so peeved about? Well, I'll tell you, pardner. I'm plumb spirit-fractured about how they have watered down the good old-fashioned horse opera, and turned the cowboy, the sheriff and the U. S. marshal into little Lord Fauntleroy in sombreros.

THE HORSE OPERA in its original form was one of the simplest and most satisfying art mediums ever devised. The villain reeked of evil, the heroic cowboy reeked of dust and sweat.

He gunned down the bad man, virtue triumphed, and everybody led the theater feeling he had got his dime's worth—which is what it cost to go to a movie in those days.

But today you can pay $1.50 and instead of Zane Grey or Max Brand, you get two hours of Sigmund Freud—in color. You are left to mull over whether the sheriff shot the bad man because of an Oedipus complex, and whether the bad man really was bad or just a crazy kid with a mixed up ID.

Shades of William S. Hart, the pattern of all movie cowboys! Since he, Harry Carey, Hoot Gibson and Tom Mix passed from the screen, the movie cowboy has gone nowhere but downhill.

Pardner, those galoots were real hairy-chested buckos. They looked like cowboys. They wore bandanas, leather arm cuffs, and leather or sheepskin chaps—the same clothes the honest working cowboy once wore.

They hung out in saloons when they weren't out on the range, and they weren't afraid to belly up to the bar and belt down four fingers of bourbon, the breakfast of champions.

BUT TODAY? The cowboy has been prettified beyond belief. He relies on his guitar as much as his gun. Except for his sombrero and six-shooter, he is dressed like Ivy League—who wants to wear those itchy old chaps any more?

The movie cowboy now avoids those nasty old saloons as much as possible. He leaves for Eagle Pass from a cozy restaurant, where he takes more coffee breaks than a stenographer.

Instead of dance hall dames, whose morals at least were never questionable, your modern horse opera is populated by lacy schoolteachers, beautiful young cafe waitresses, and other would-be pioneer mothers.

On television, with a few exceptions, such as "Gunsmoke," the horse operas are even more sickeningly sterile. Instead of going "bang!" the guns go "ping!"

Yes, the sound even has a question mark behind it, like this—"ping? ping? ping?"

George Dixon Washington Scene

WASHINGTON—Every time I pick up the paper these days I read where somebody says the country should be awakened. The country seems to be overpopulated with self-elected country-awakeners. "The country must be awakened!" the country-awakeners scream sleepily. They must think the country is as dopey as they are.

How much do they think it takes to awaken the country? From what I have been able to sense, the country already is thoroughly aroused. Why even a party as non-partisan as Senates Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield concedes it is not the country that needs waking up. It is the Administration, he will admit under torture.

How much awake do the country-awakeners figure the country should be awakened? They've got most of us sleepless and staring, but still they yell that we should wake up. If they don't sleep it off they'll be turning the rest of us into insomniacs.

If the country-awakeners can't sleep unless they are waking somebody up, let them go to the Pentagon and crow their cock-a-doodle-does. We non-Pentagoners are not so much in need of arousing. The Pentagonists, as the rival services might aptly be termed, apparently have an antipathy to being screamed awake. They prefer to be lulled awake.

THE AVERAGE American is so anxious to be alert and wakeful that he tries to get some sleep. The English try to achieve this with whiskey, the French with wine, but we Americans use drugs. We swallow more sleeping and waking-up pills than all the rest of the world put together.

I just talked to the Food and Drug Administration about this and it came up with some nightmarish figures. Last year this country produced 756,000 pounds of sleepers, and 60,000 pounds of wakers.

At first glance this would seem to indicate that we were twelve times more interested in going to sleep than staying awake. But the figures are misleading. There are about 7,000 doses to a pound of barbiturates, as the food and drug administration lumps all sleepers, but 70,000 doses to a pound of amphetamines, as it lumps all wakers.

The great national mystery would seem to be: Do we take so many barbiturates to put us to sleep because we take too many amphetamines to keep us awake, or do we take too many amphetamines to keep us awake because we take too many barbiturates to put us to sleep, or which of the Alsop brothers sleeps while the other is awakening the country?

THERE WAS ALSO general concern among our Craft Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson must have taken to talking in code because this communique was sent to all of us from his office:

"If you kept a file of foreign agricultural trade policy circulars in 1957, you will note that circular FATP 23-57 is missing. A circular bearing that designation was to have been published about the same time as FATP 24-57, but not. Developments necessitated its withdrawal too late for FATP 24-57 to be changed to FATP 23-57. Hence there was no FATP 23-57."

I have investigated this thoroughly, but all I have been able to ascertain definitely to date is that "FATP" is not short for "fat-puss."

Crowe announced committee appointments as follows: Marshall Porter, game refuge and shooting match; James Lewis Jr., game raising; Noah Shroyer and Aaron Snyder, Boys' Club; George Walters, publicity and refreshments; Robert Housel, Charles Porter and Louis Porter, delegates to the Western Maryland Wildlife Federation; Clarence Michaels, Henry Eckhart and Richard Watson Jr., alternates.

Banana Useful In Menu Plans

The versatile banana plays many roles in modern menu planning. A medium banana contains only 88 calories, yet supplies high food energy, well-rounded supplies of vitamins and essential minerals. It combines readily with meats, vegetables, fruits, salad greens and cereal to add welcome variety in the reducing diets.

You can toast sesame seeds by putting them in a heavy skillet, covering it, and shaking the pan over low heat.

Morning Cookies With Tea

CRACKER-LIKE COOKIES: These cookies have a cracker-like quality in that they are bland and not really sweet. They are made with a special dough and are good with morning coffee or tea.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Have you ever wanted to bake a cookie with a cracker-like quality, bland and not really sweet?

Something to nibble with that late-morning cup of tea or coffee, something for youngsters whose taste is still fresh enough to appreciate a simple flavor. Then this cookie recipe is one you will want to try. The dough is made a special way and has an interesting texture; you'll find it's easy and fun to knead it a few times as called for in these directions.

Morning Cookies

Ingredients: 3½ cups sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs (separated), ½ cup sugar, ½ cup corn oil, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ¼ cup milk, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons water, ¼ cup sesame seeds.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat 2 egg yolks with rotary beater (hand or electric) until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in sugar; mixture should be ivory colored. Add corn oil alternately with orange juice, beating constantly. Stir 1½ cups of the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk into the first mixture. With clean rotary beater, beat 2 egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into flour mixture. Fold in remaining dry ingredients. Turn dough out on a prepared pastry cloth or floured board; knead lightly about 2 minutes. Roll ¼-inch thick. Cut with cookie cutter of desired shape and place on greased cookie sheets. Beat 1 egg and water enough to blend; brush on cookies; sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Cool on wire racks. Makes about 6 dozen medium-sized cookies. These cookies keep well for weeks in a tightly covered container.

Ever roll pieces of chicken that are to be fried in cornmeal seasoned with salt and pepper?

Cheese Dips Bring Raves

Here are two cheese dips which will bring raves from your guests:

NIPPY CHEESE DIP
8 ozs. cream cheese, 6 ozs. sharp pasteurized cheese spread, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 4 teaspoons prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup mayonnaise or light cream.

Have cheese at room temperature. Combine ingredients and beat until smooth. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 1 pint. To serve, place bowl of cheese dip on large serving plate or tray. Surround bowl with potato chips.

TANGY CHEESE DIP
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten, 2 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 6 oz. cream cheese spread (chive, onion and chive).

Combine egg yolks, water, vinegar and sugar in saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture thickens & coats spoon (Do not boil). Remove from heat. Add cheese and beat until smooth. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 1 cup. To serve, place bowl of cheese dip on large serving plate or tray. Surround bowl with potato chips.

Try this recipe for your cookies this year, and then just wait for your family's and friends' compliments.

CHIP KISSES
2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup crushed potato chips.

Beat egg whites, salt, and cream of tartar until foamy, using rotary egg beater or electric mixer. Add sugar slowly and beat until meringue stands in very stiff peaks (takes about 10 min.). Add vanilla. Fold in potato chips. Drop by teaspoon on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) for 25 to 30 min. Cool. Keep kisses in tightly covered can or jar. Makes 2½ dozen kisses.

Roast Stuffed Chicken For Two

Two is company enough, no need for a crowd, to enjoy a roasted stuffed chicken. The secret is: Buy a whole, frying chicken, and have it split down the back. Wash and pat the chicken with a towel. Make your favorite celery and onion bread stuffing.

Use chicken bouillon for moistening. Lay chicken on a board, split sides up. Fill the cavity with stuffing, fasten together with skewers, and truss.

Brush with melted butter and place breast side up on a baking pan. Roast uncovered in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1½ hours. Make gravy from drippings.

Pot Roast, Fryers Given Food Store Top Billing

By The Associated Press
Hot items for the home plate this week are eggs, chicken fryers and some of the cheaper cuts of beef.

Eggs constitute a real bargain—down anywhere from 6 to 12 cents a dozen around the country. Emphasis on the less expensive cuts of meat reflects a seasonal tight supply which always pushes up the price of beef, pork, lamb and veal around this time, market experts say.

Prominently featured this week-end will be boneless pot roasts, beef blade and cross rib roasts, chuck steak and hamburger. Sirloin, up four to six cents a pound in various areas, will get relatively little promotion.

Chicken Fryers Lower
Chicken fryers, which have held to the 39 cents a pound level in the metropolitan area for almost six months, are offered in some areas this week at 33 cents.

The most heavily spotlighted pork items are smoked boneless butts, rib ends, sausage and chops. Bacon, bologna and sandwich meats are a specialty feature at many supermarkets.

Bargains in vegetables are not too plentiful. The best buys are potatoes and onions from local fields. Prices of both these basic staples are headed higher.

Collards and kale from Virginia are also listed as outstanding buys and in good supply. Western iceberg lettuce is another good item. Also attractively priced are spinach from Texas and Virginia, along with mustard greens.

The Florida freeze a fortnight ago is reflected in somewhat higher than seasonal prices for egg plant, beans, pepper, cucumbers and tomatoes.

One exception is cabbage from Texas and Florida, which is in moderately good supply and in the fairly good buy class.

Citrus Prices Drop
The embargo on shipments of Florida citrus has ended and oranges, grapefruit and tangerines from that state are in somewhat better supply and a bit lower in price than in recent weeks. However, prices on these probably will remain higher than usual through the winter. Fairly good buys this week are California lemons and navel oranges.

Apple. remain the best buy but shoppers should remember many varieties should be eaten quickly if they are not of the storage type.

Sandwich Spread

A tangy spread for open-face rye bread sandwiches combines oyster bisque you are making, 1 small can of liver spread with 1 chopped, hard-cooked egg, ½ added to the soup points up cup diced celery and mayonnaise enough to moisten.

Seasoning In Bisque

Whether it's lobster, crab or an oyster bisque you are making, a small can of liver spread with 1 chopped, hard-cooked egg, ½ added to the soup points up cup diced celery and mayonnaise enough to moisten.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Correspondents take sharp issue with man's snob- ish objection to wife's AA fellow- ship.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Burr-ruther! The stupidity of some people's kids! At the mo- ment I refer to Mr. U. P., your recent correspondent who snidely objects to his wife's attending AA meetings, even though they've kept her dry for 14 months. (He fears for his social standing if the neighbors find out!)

How in the name of all that's holy can a man resent or object to any godly fellowship that has what-it-takes to keep a person sober? This fellow says his wife stayed drunk most of the time until she discovered AA—and hasn't fallen off the wagon since. An alcoholic myself of six years' experience, I've known all the despair and remorse that she's been through. But I am sober now and, with God's help, I shall stay that way. I will follow the AA's 12 steps to recovery, and make the meetings—that do so much in promoting sobriety.

What's The Answer To This Question?

Which is best, Mr. U. P.: A sober member of AA? Or a drunken member of society, in a heedless world that is powerless to help the alcoholic control him- self? One drink and the compul- sion is triggered off, that calls for more and more drink; and then it seems useless to try to stop. I am thoroughly convinced that AA is the only solution.

"All she needs is more will power," says Mr. U. P. Will power my eye! An alcoholic has more will power than almost any person living. Just let him run out of something to drink and you'll see how much will power he has! He will find something to drink; you can bet your all on that.

Discase it definitely is; and has been so proclaimed by medical personnel and welfare workers the world over.

Believe me, Mr. U. P., it would be wonderful if you would visit and study the AA program, and understand it, and give it support in helping your wife. It would make you acquainted with God's spirit working in mankind (as love and forgiveness); and would lift you out of fear of "what people may think"—when what they think can't help you one bit.

Man's Temperament

His Wife's Cross?
DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Mr. U. P.'s bristling letter, about his wife's claim that she needs to attend AA meetings, may well contain the tip-off as to why she became an alcoholic in the first place.

So far as his reputation is concerned, one thing seems certain: He must have a reputation for being a cold indifferent hypocrite. How can he imagine that he has escaped the reputation of being married to an alcoholic? This is exactly the sort of thing people gossip about.

Except in the minds of persons as inhumane as he so vividly shows himself to be, he could only gain respect by helping his wife reclaim sobriety. May God protect her; but living with U. P. certainly adds greatly to her trials.

I wish you had let him have it, as you so frequently have done in other cases, when the culprit was far less deserving of a kick in the pants. Cordially, —E.D.

Man Hamstrung By Ignorance

DEAR E.D.: I confess my first impulse was to read the riot act to Mr. U. P., as concerns his stupidly upstage attitude to- wards his wife's discovery of AA and all that it can do for her. But on second thought I asked myself: What's the use of be-laboring a man for his ignor- ance? If he knew better, doubt- less he would do better. There- fore I gave him a briefing about the tremendous current of spiri- tual power with which his wife has allied herself, and how it works. I hope I put the picture across.

Short Ribs Tender And Tasty Dish

Cooked until they are so ten- der, the meat falls from the bone, beef short ribs are about the tastiest meat you could serve for a winter dinner. An economical cut from the ends of standing rib roasts, short ribs have all the full meat flavor of the more expensive cuts.

To insure the most tender short ribs, long slow cooking—braising—is best. Brown the meat and simmer it in a little liquid until tender. While the meat is cook- ing, prepare fresh fall carrots, applies and onions to complete the main course.

In the following recipe, instruc- tions are given for preparing braised short ribs with apple and onion rings. A light browning in a little butter is enough to leave the rings slightly crisp.

While the ribs finish braising, cook scraped whole carrots in a little boiling, salted water until tender about 13 to 20 minutes. Season them with butter and sprinkle with parsley before serv- ing.

Savory Short Ribs
2 1/2 pounds beef short ribs
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard or drip- pings
2 leaspoons Worcestershire sauce
2 leaspoons salt
1 leaspoon pepper
1 cup water
3 large unpeeled red-skinned apples, sliced thickly
2 to three tablespoons butter or margarine

Roll meat in flour and brown in hot fat. Add Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper and water. Cover pan and cook over low heat two hours or until meat is tender. Remove seeds from apple slices, brown lightly in melted butter. Remove apples from pan, and brown onions in fat. Arrange apples and onions around meat on platter. Four to five servings.

Pudding Variations

Vary vanilla pudding by serv- ing it with cooked dried apricots, fresh orange sections mixed with sliced strawberries mixed with pineapple tidbits.

Taffy Glaze On Popcorn Tasty Treat

Taffy-coated popcorn balls are fun to make and eat of an eve- ning. For about 2 dozen balls, make four quarts of unsalted, popped corn.

The taffy glaze is made by combining 1 cup unsulphured molasses, 1 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon butter in a saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved.

Then cook over medium heat until the syrup, when dropped in very cold water, separates into threads which are hard but not brittle. Pour over popped corn, stirring to coat each kernel.

When cool enough to handle, shape into balls with lightly but- tered hands.

This Macaroni Aromatic

Herbs, cheese and tomatoes transform a simple macaroni dish into a glamorous macaroni casserole.

Add 1 tablespoon salt and 6 ounces shell or elbow macaroni to 4 1/2 cups boiling water. Boil rapidly, stirring constantly, for 12 minutes. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 10 minutes.

Rinse with warm water and drain well. Turn into greased 1-quart casserole.

Sprinkle 1 cup shredded pro- cess American cheese (1/4 pound) and 3 tablespoons grated Parme- san cheese over macaroni and mix lightly. Stir 1/2 cup milk into 2 leaspoons prepared mustard. Pour over macaroni.

Slice each of 2 tomatoes into 4 thick slices. Arrange on top of macaroni. Mix 1/4 cup fine shape into balls with lightly but- tered hands. dry bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted, 2.

SRC To Give Re-Analysis Of Program

Needs Of Projects Reconsidered From Original Planning

BALTIMORE, Md. — The State Roads Commission will report to the 1958 General Assembly next month on a re-analysis of its road-building program.

SRC Chairman Robert O. Bonnell said engineers have gone over the program item by item, comparing the need for projects originally planned with needs that have arisen since.

Bonnell said the county-by-county re-analysis has been discussed with officials and legislators from all but five of the state's 23 counties, and those will be completed within a week.

This re-analysis will be woven into the report to the Legislature. The commission, at its weekly meeting yesterday, also took the first engineering step toward construction of a controlled-access superhighway to speed traffic northwest out of Baltimore City. Rummel, Klepper and Kahl of Baltimore was hired as consulting engineers for the first 4½-mile section of the 12½-million-dollar Northwest Expressway.

The expressway—a new U.S. 140—will extend from Baltimore's northwest boundary to a junction with the present U.S. 140 12½ miles north of the city. The consulting engineers' fee will be 4 per cent of the total contract price.

Bonnell said the SRC would take part in a Jan. 29 public hearing at Silver Spring concerning what route U.S. 240 will take in entering downtown Washington. The issue has become the No. 1 civic controversy in Washington.

Bonnell also said the commission would meet at 10 a.m. next Wednesday with Frederick County officials in Frederick. Members will participate, with Gov. McKeldin, in opening of two new sections of the Frederick By-Pass.

Contractor Claims Price Estimate Low

Wallace H. McGill, building contractor, reports he received a number of telephone calls for the construction of new dwellings after news reports said he was issued a permit to build a dwelling for $2,000.

The permit was the first 1958 permit by the Allegany County Assessing Department and should have read $20,000.

Returns From Leave

Airman 1/c and Mrs. Craig Fuller have returned to Havre (Mont.) Air Force Base after spending a leave with their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fuller, 420 Beall Street, the couple also visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Heinrich, Hagerstown.

CHIEF ASSESSOR — William H. Riley is chief supervisor of assessments in Maryland. A Severna Park resident, he formerly headed the Anne Arundel County assessment department.

Cooperative Advertising Is Proposed

McKeldin Advises Poultrymen To Tell Public Of Products

BALTIMORE, Md. — Gov. McKeldin has suggested that state poultry growers consider some cooperative advertising of Maryland chickens and turkeys throughout their market area.

"You are doing a fine job in your industry," McKeldin told the Maryland State Poultry Council at an anniversary dinner last night. "But in the competitive market of today, you cannot rest on the virtues of your product. You must tell the world about it."

The governor acknowledged that poultry growing is big business in the state, but he said he is sure the consumption of Maryland poultry could be increased.

"I would like to see more packages and more menus proclaiming the deliciousness of Maryland chickens," he said.

McKeldin said he does not want to take any credit from the poultry pioneers of the Delmarva Peninsula but he believes "the real launcher of the king-size poultry industry was the city man who first added up his corn and mash bills, counted in his hours of labor and wisely decided that his backyard henry was economically unsound."

"Chicken and turkey farming on a large scale moved into the breach," McKeldin said. "American enterprise being what it is, better processing and attractive packaging followed. The feed business grew by leaps and bounds (and) today the poultry business is big business."

"Thanks to the initiative of men and women of our Eastern Shore, it is a major part of Maryland's strong and diversified economy." The governor contrasted yesterday's "killing of a rooster on the chopping block, soaking the carcass in hot water, plucking the feathers (and) removing the innards..." with the modern way of "removing a neat package from the refrigerator."

He also commented on the convenience of buying packages of chicken with nothing but drumsticks or breasts, and he told the story of a father of a large family who was faced with several demands for a drumstick whenever he carved a chicken. The father finally asked his children: "what do you think this is—a centipede?"

"Well, today," McKeldin said, "the answer could almost be 'yes.'"

The heath hen is believed to be extinct, none having been seen alive since 1932.

W. Va. Senate Finance Unit May Support Minimum Programs

By CHARLES R. LEWIS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The Senate's Finance Committee scheduled its first meeting today amid indications that chamber's Democratic majority would support new revenue proposals assuring at least "minimum" road and school programs.

It generally was conceded, however, that the Senate leadership had no immediate thoughts even approaching the 37 million dollars more a year for roads and 15 million for schools which Gov. Underwood suggested yesterday.

The basic approach of the Senate Democrats, who outnumber their Republican colleagues 21-11, appeared to be shaping up this way:

Steps will be taken to obtain from the State Road Commission detailed financial and other information regarding how that agency has functioned under a new reorganization act the 1957 Legislature enacted.

"We want to know," one Democrat said, "just what has been spent, and how, on roads. The big thing we want to make certain is that there will be enough state money to match available federal aid."

How far beyond the precaution against a loss of federal money, and new money for additional road work labeled as absolutely essential, the Senate leaders might want to go remained problematical.

The Democrats' plan is to take virtually the same detailed look at public education, again with the idea of determining first just what the so-called minimum additional needs in the form of state money might be.

One Democratic senator observed before Underwood's address yesterday that, in view of what he termed the uncertain economic future of the state, he was thinking more in terms of four and five million dollars than 50.

Even some officials in Republican Gov. Underwood's official family have privately expressed concern about what might happen to the state's existing revenues in the face of an economic decline.

One official took note of predictions that basic industries face a number of "slow" months. He stressed that a large portion of the West Virginia tax structure and economy rest on just such industries, like coal.

There have been observations that Board of Public Works estimates of revenue from such sources as the gross-sales and consumers' sales taxes for the year to begin next July 1 were too high in preparation of a budget document.

Auditor Edgar B. Sims walked from the final board meeting connected with the document with the observation that the board estimates might prove up to three or four million dollars too high.

Two years ago, the administration of Democrat Gov. Marland had to set up a 5-per cent reserve in legislative appropriations for spending agencies to permit the state to finish the fiscal year in the "black."

The size of Underwood's road and school programs took Democrats and Republicans alike by surprise yesterday. One was immediately dubbed the tax program as a "let's go broke" affair.

Four Youths Admit Part In Entries

Police Solve Three Cases; Question Quartet On Others

The Cumberland Police Department received its first break in the series of recent breaking and enterings last night with the arrest of four local youths.

The breaking and enterings have been going on in Cumberland for the past several months. A total of 14 occurred during December and first week of this month.

Chief R. Emmett Flynn said today three were apprehended last night and an 18-year-old youth was nabbed early this morning.

Admit Three Entries

The four have admitted to entering the R. W. Norris Company, 100 Wincow Street, on Tuesday night, and also taking part in robberies at the Johnson Heights School and Miller's Junk Yard, River Avenue, during the Christmas holidays.

The break in the case came when a local woman telephoned police headquarters that her brother had admitted his part in the Norris case.

Officer Kenneth Morrissey and officer Wilbur E. Shank went to Jane Frazier Village where they apprehended two boys, one 15 and the other 16.

Shortly afterward they received another call that the third youth was at his home. Officer Morrissey arrested the youth and he took the officer to a parked car where three rifles and a shotgun were hidden under the rear seat of the vehicle.

Stolen Tuesday Night

The weapons, along with a large amount of shells, were stolen Tuesday night from the Norris Company.

During questioning by Officer Morrissey, Det. Gordon Hite and Assistant Chief B. Frank Gaffney the boys admitted the Norris job, and also the school and junk yard robberies. They also involved the youth from Flintstone who was apprehended today.

Police today continued to question the quartet and were of the belief that several more of the breaking and enterings would be cleared up. Lt. Det. James E. Van and Det. Joseph Stichter were questioning the boys.

Since the last of November the City of Cumberland has suffered 14 breaking and enterings as follows:

November 29, Pepsi Cola Company on Chase Street where $112 was taken and King's Tackle Shop, a 300 Savage Rifle valued at $113.75.

Service Station Entered

December 6, Service Station, corner George and Union streets, $10 in cash.

December 10, Gulf Station, Virginia and Mary Street, $225 in cash and credit cards.

December 14, Allegany Feed Store, 115 Knox Street, nothing missing.

December 19, Novick Transfer Company, 1115 Lexington Avenue, $37.73 from a cash box.

December 22, rear of 449 North Centre Street, nothing missing.

December 30, Len's Grocery Store, 400 Pennsylvania Avenue, $56 in bills and change; Lewis Grocery Store, Fifth and Seymour streets, unknown amount of cigarettes, beer and 125 pennies; and Miller's Junk Yard, River Avenue, clock radio.

January 2, Office of Dr. James P. Hallinan, 140 Bedford Street, ransacked, nothing missing.

Murphy's Restaurant, Centre and Harrison streets, change from box, and Mayfair Laundry, 143 North Centre Street, small safe and wooden chest containing approximately $130.

January 8, Norris Company, 100 Wincow Street, rifles and shells.

Driver Faces Motor Charge

Emmanuel Bittner, 62, of RD 2, Frostburg, has been charged with a motor vehicle violation in connection with the school bus accident yesterday which hospitalized six Northern High School students.

Tic. Donald W. Wade of the Maryland State Police, who investigated the crash on U.S. Route 40 two miles west of Grantsville, said Bittner will be charged with speed too great for the condition of the highway.

The bus went out of control yesterday morning and hit a culvert on icy Negro Mountain. Six students and Bittner were admitted to Meyersdale Community Hospital and 30 other passengers escaped injury.

Admitted to the hospital were Carolyn Winchrenner, 16, of Finzel; Margaret Layman, 15, Wilda McKenzie, 17, Judy Minnick, 17, all of RD 2, Frostburg; Glen Alan Durst, 12, of Star Route, Frostburg; Betty Raley, 12, of the Finzel area and the driver, Emmanuel Bittner, 62, of RD 2, Frostburg. They are reported in "good" condition.

Bittner told authorities that he was descending Negro Mountain on the west slope.

NEW KELLY ANNEX—This 145-foot by 250-foot structure constructed in the front lawn of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company

Senator Beall Plans Race To Finish

Frostburger Files For Renomination As U. S. Senator

ANNAPOLIS — J. Glenn

Beall, of Frostburg, who yesterday filed for re-election as U. S. Senator from Maryland, said today he will ask Marylanders one important question in his campaign — "Have I done a good job or not?"

The action put to rest any remaining suspicion that he would swap races with Republican Gov. McKeldin who cannot try for a third term.

The 63-year-old Beall appears a shoo-in for the Republican nomination at the May 20 primary. His only announced opposition is Henry J. Laque, Jr., Linthicum junk dealer, and no bigger challengers are in sight.

Beall won election to the Senate in 1952 over George P. Mahoney, one of several Democrats seeking the nomination again.

Beall took the Senate seat voluntarily surrendered by Herbert R. O'Connor, a Democrat.

Beall made the successful jump to the Senate from the House of Representatives in which he had served five terms from the Sixth District of Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties. He previously had been chairman of the State Roads Commission and a state senator from Allegany.

In U. S. Senate, Beall is a member of the Banking and Currency and the District of Columbia committees.

In a prepared statement accompanying his filing for renomination, Beall said he will ask Maryland voters "one important question—have I done a good job or not?"

To help them answer it, he said, he would visit "all sections of our state at every opportunity to review my record and discuss current issues."

He took note in a way of rumors that he might run for governor to give McKeldin a crack at the Senate by stating "I pledge to my constituents that I am in this senatorial campaign to stay."

Annual Bank Sessions Held

The Cumberland Savings Bank held its annual stockholders meeting this morning at the bank.

The membership of the board of directors was returned to office. Members are John L. Conway, James T. Coyle, W. McKinley Dalley, Webster K. Edwards, Gorman E. Getty, W. Jennings Milburn, Marcus A. Naughton and Arthur J. Weber.

Getty is actually the only new member of the board, being elected to the position several months ago to succeed the late F. Brooke Whiting.

At an organizational meeting following the stockholders session, the officers of the institution were re-elected. They are:

W. K. Edwards, chairman of the board; A. J. Weber, president; M. A. Naughton, vice president; J. L. Conway, cashier, and Mrs. Alma F. Hose, assistant cashier.

Local Magistrates Handle 54 Cases

A total of 54 motor vehicle cases were handled this morning in local Trial Magistrate courts.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason handled 45 of the cases, while Jack Mullen, substitute magistrate, handled nine cases.

The fines totaled approximately $345 and costs. Most of the fines were forfeited, the magistrates said.

To Meet Tonight

The Parent-Teacher Association of Wiley Ford will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Miss Sandra Billard, assistant dietician at Memorial Hospital, will speak and the Girls 4-H Club will sell candy.

Teachers will be in their rooms for visitation from 7 until 7:30 p. m.

Tire Curing Room Expected To Be Ready About April 1

Contractors and officials of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company are shooting for an April 1 competition date of the new curing room under construction.

The exterior of the 145-foot by 250-foot building constructed in the front lawn as an extension of the west wing has been finished by the George F. Hazelwood Company.

The Hazelwood firm also has the job of laying the reinforced concrete floor which is divided by a series of seven trenches that will house steam, air, water and electric lines to the machinery.

These trenches, company officials explained, where not covered by equipment, will have a cover of steel grating.

It is expected the floor and six-foot wide and six-foot deep trenches will be finished in time for the machinery which is due anytime.

Each one of the 56 dual automatic molds weighs about four to five tons. They will be delivered three on a railroad flat car.

The basic portion of the equipment is assembled by the manufacturer at the factory.

The equipment is designed so that molds can be changed as the orders for tires come in.

Hazelwood was also the successful bidder on placing the molds. The Lloyd E. Mitchell Company of Baltimore is handling the piping, the Hall Electric Company of Detroit, the electric work.

There are approximately 130 construction workers on the job.

Cold Retains Tight Grip On District

The cold spell continued in this section overnight and the Weather Bureau predicted a warning condition tomorrow.

Tonight is expected to be clear and cold with the lows in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties being between 12 and 20 degrees.

Tomorrow, the bureau said, these counties will see mostly sunny weather with slowly rising temperatures and high readings in the 40s.

Saturday is to be continued fair and a little warmer.

Last night saw no new snow in this section, but the temperature got down to near zero. On top of Big Savage the minimum was one degree above zero this morning.

The low at Oakland and Accident was six degrees above, while Frostburg had eight, Cumberland 14, and Town Hill, five.

The district office of the State Roads Commission here reported Route 40 east of Grantsville was from 95 to 100 per cent bare, while to the west it is 80 per cent bare at noon today.

All other roads west of Frostburg off the National Highway are 60 to 70 per cent bare, except Route 50 in the southern part of Garrett County which is only 30 per cent bare.

Textile Union Nominates Officer Slate

John G. Thomas Seeks Second Term As Local 1874 President

Officers of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers of America, were nominated at membership meetings last night and this morning.

John G. Thomas, incumbent president, is among a slate of five nominees for the local's top office. Just completing his first term as president, Thomas served 12 years as business agent for the local.

Other nominees opposing Thomas are William J. Atkinson, current vice president, Russell Bennett, Thomas F. Powers and James Stewart.

Atkinson was also nominated as an incumbent, union spokesman explaining that he will have to decline to run for one of the positions.

Also nominated for the vice presidency were Harry Carns, John Powell and Carl Ryan.

Davis Again Named

Charles F. Davis, who is completing his third term as secretary-treasurer of Local 1874, was again nominated for the position. The name of Charles E. Jones was also placed in nomination for secretary-treasurer.

Thirteen Amcelle plant employees, including the six incumbents, were nominated for the local's executive board membership.

Incumbents are Joseph J. Barley, Robert Blair, Lillian Burch, Floyd Grady, Walter Mahoney and Ira McBride. Also named for the balloting were Mary Duckworth, Lindley Dye, Orlean H. Frantz, Arvel Jeffreys, Oral Phillips, Stanley Morgan and John Weslow.

The five members comprising the local's board of trustees were also renominated, along with two newcomers. Present members of the board are Robert L. Jones, James F. McGinn, Carl Sherman, John J. Union spokesmen said a 1958 check-off membership card, or a dues card with a December stamp will be necessary before members can cast ballots. Furloughed members who have worked since October 8 will also be eligible to vote, union officials said.

The local's executive board will decide on any unusual situations that arise prior to the election.

There are approximately 2,000 employees eligible to vote in the coming election.

Hartman and Wolf received eight weeks basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and 16 weeks engineer training. They will be assigned to the Pioneer Platoon with Headquarters Company here.

Cage and Kaiser received eight week basic at Fort Knox and advanced infantry training there. Armstrong received supply training with the 57th Engineer Battalion at Ft. Belvoir, Va., and Helms received mess hall training at Fort Knox.

The latter four are members of "C" Company of the Guard here. All six men still have three and a half years left of their obligation which will include 48 drill nights a year and 15-days summer encampment.

A number of openings exist in the National Guard and any one interested in enlisting can contact Sgt. John Lewis or Specialist 3/c Joseph Vandegriest at the State Armory, South Centre Street.

Two Will Stick

Two of the four other candidates, James Bruce and George P. Mahoney, declared their plans would not be affected by results of the Annapolis meeting. Neither was invited.

Bruce, former U. S. ambassador to Argentina, criticized it as "a small group of dictators trying to dictate to the voters." He called it a "political playing deal right into the hands of the Republicans."

Mahoney, the party's unsuccessful senatorial nominee in 1952 and 1956, issued this statement early today after returning from a campaign trip to Frederick County.

"Before I filed my candidacy" on Dec. 18, I gave the matter serious consideration and talked it over with the rank-and-file Democrats throughout the State.

"When I file, I am in a campaign to stay. Nothing has happened to change my mind. I will carry my campaign to the people as I have always done and I am confident they will support."

Mahoney noted that he drew 420,105 votes in his 1956 loss to Republican Sen. John Marshall Butler.

Vote Encourages

"That is the greatest vote ever given any Democrat in Maryland history," he said. "This in itself is sufficient encouragement for me, and with the help of the rank-and-file of the Democratic party I know I will win."

Also formal candidates in the senatorial race are Dr. Clarence Dulaney Foster, chief judge of the Baltimore Orphans' Court, will be moderator.

Long predicted that D'Alessandro's entrance in the Senate race "will definitely help my campaign."

"I have met 12,000 voters in the last four weeks in a dozen counties," he said in a statement, "and damage resulting from the 44-car wreck at Patterson Creek Monday virtually no grass-roots support day amounts to about $130,000 outside the city."

T. J. Klauenberg, superintendent of the Cumberland Division, Silver Spring, also seeking the Democratic estimate and also reported that as of 3 p. m. yesterday all three tracks at the scene of the mishap were opened for traffic.

All three main lines, including the cutoff line between Patterson Creek and McKenzie near Rawlins, were blocked by the twisted wreckage of three passenger cars and tons of coal.

The accident happened about 1 a. m. Monday and a little over 24 hours later the B&O work crews had the first line open.

During this time, the B&O used the Western Maryland Railway line between Miller and North Branch.

Klauenberg said that on Tuesday at 7 p. m. the second main line was opened, and that all this city remain on the executive board of the Maryland-D.C. AFL-CIO today although all teamsters locals have been expelled.

The teamsters locals were expelled by the executive board at its meeting yesterday in Washington. The board also accepted the resignation of its president, Cumberland has been cancelled, according to Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

The board expelled the locals' president, who explained that a board meeting will be the only under orders by the national assembly held.

The board, Mrs. Miller said, will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the Liberty Trust Building, the parent organization as to Plans for February activities will be discussed, she said.

Democrats Face Battle For Senate

D'Alessandro Quits Governor Contest In "Harmony" Move

BALTIMORE — A quick switch by Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro turned the attention of Maryland Democrats today from the primary for governor to a new five-way battle for nomination to the U. S. Senate.

The sudden shift resulted from the mayor's announcement last night that, instead of opposing State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination, he would withdraw from that race and run in the senatorial primary as Tawes' running mate.

His action climaxed weeks of backstage maneuvering and came within an hour after 43 Statewide party leaders, striving to avoid a party-splitting primary fight between Tawes and D'Alessandro, agreed to support the mayor if he changed goals.

Back Each Other

Tawes and D'Alessandro, awaiting the developments in a downtown Baltimore hotel as the leaders deliberated in Annapolis, then simultaneously issued press announcements endorsing each other.

A few of the Annapolis strategists insisted on with-holding their support for spots on the ticket. But most agreed they also would support Tawes' previously announced running mates—Ally Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert for renomination and State Sen. Louis L. Goldstein of Calvert County for comptroller.

The day's hectic developments left Tawes without a major opponent for the nomination to succeed Republican Gov. McKeldin, who is ineligible for a third term.

They also thrust D'Alessandro into a unusually big field for the nomination to succeed Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who filed for renomination late yesterday.

Two of the four other candidates, James Bruce and George P. Mahoney, declared their plans would not be affected by results of the Annapolis meeting. Neither was invited.

West Virginia Shows It Could Be Team Of Year

Stages Rally Against Cats To Preserve Win Streak

It may take a defeat to bring out the best in the Fort Ashby High cagers, but the rest of the season as the Eagles hope to capture their first Potomac Valley Conference basketball title.

That loss would be the overtime, 36-35, setback the charges of coach Quentin Sayers were handed by the Paw Paw Pirates last night as the high-soaring Eagles were all set to pick up valuable ground on the front-running Piedmont floormen.

The Eagles, who have been a big surprise to both their ardent followers and many other fans in the district, were favorites to take across the Pirates who have been equally as tough and can't be regarded as patsies by any opposition this season.

The Pirates were a determined crew of hoopers, gamely fighting back time after time and their reward was a richly-deserved victory. They had trailed most of the game but held on enough to keep close. The Eagles, who had been sidetracked just Monday night by Piedmont for their first conference loss, just couldn't ward off the Bucs.

An observer close to the school thought that the Eagles lacked the fire and desire for victory the Pirates were showing. This could be the year for the Fort Ashby cagers, they have a well-balanced and veteran team.

Sam Barnes, Eddie Linn and Gary Isner, the heart of the attack, are three-year veterans while most of the other members on the team have all had playing time under fire and know what to do with the basketball.

It's still not too late for the Eagles to perk up and get back into the thick of the PVC race. They have another big one coming up tomorrow night when they meet the Ridgeley Black Hawks in their return battle. The Eagles put on a late-period spurt to slip by the Hawks, 62-59, on the Black Hawk court the first time.

They will have to play even harder tomorrow to produce another win over the charges of coach Tom O'Connor who got back into the title picture last night with a come-from-behind win over Keyser, 58-54. The Hawks also have their sights set on the crown and have proven they can be mightily tough when they are clicking.

Isner, by the way, will be on the sidelines for the Eagles, the six-two senior forward spraining his ankle in the Piedmont clash. He missed last night's game and will be out of action until the middle of next week.

State Trout Season

There appears to be a widespread misunderstanding as to the open season for trout in Maryland.

According to the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, the trout season opened officially under regulation promulgated October 5, 1957 (effective January 1, 1958) on January 1, 1958, and will remain open through March 14, 1958.

It will then be closed for a month and will re-open April 15, 1958 and remain open through December 31, 1958.

This state-wide open season, except between March 14 and April 15, inclusive, will apply to all the waters of the State including the 'Savage River Reservoir and New Germany Lake. It will not apply, however, to the river and streams of the 'Savage River Watershed where the season will not open until April 15 running through September 15.

The Commission's 1958 Angler's Guide, containing a synopsis of the Maryland Fresh Water Fishing Regulations is now available. A copy will be furnished every angler when he purchases his '58 license.

The daily limit of five (5) trout in the aggregate will prevail state-wide, as also will the seven (7) inch size limit.

Future Score Card?

The score card of the future perhaps: names and numbers of all the players—and radio call phan a chance to show his best. Letters of the referee.

The Columbia Broadcasting System wired the refs in the New Division, receiving votes under the Year's Day Orange and Cotton five-point maximum system of 49-Bowl games. It was done with a 41 by Referee Frank S'kora, 49-40, big league player.

But last season, Sauer, who will be 39 years in the next campaign, hit 26 homers and knocked in 76 runs. The comeback player will receive the Wilcox Wrigley Jr. plaque for his outstanding play.

LITTLE SPORT

This turned the referees into human broadcasting stations with a range of about 200 yards. The voices of referee Jack Donahue in the Orange Bowl at Miami, and Albie Booth in the Dallas Cotton Bowl were picked up by remote control trucks and boosted onto the networks.

Thus it was that when a personal foul was called in the Orange Bowl, viewers heard Donahue exclaim: "Boy, did he ever boot him."

More and more, it looks as if those hustling Mountaineers of West Virginia University have what could make them The Team of the 1957-58 college basketball season.

The Mounties, who assumed the No. 1 rating in the AP poll after snapping North Carolina's 37-game winning streak three weeks ago, showed a gritty performance last night making it 11 straight, 70-75 over a fired-up Villanova outfit that held a 16-point lead with about 10 minutes to play.

Spectacular Drive

The Mounties, fumbling and inept until then, went on a spectacular drive behind their spectacular 6-3 soph, Jerry West, a 37-point scorer for the night. With about 10 seconds left, West's field goal pulled West Virginia to within one point at 75-74, and with but two seconds left Lloyd Sharrar's driving layup bagged it.

West Virginia's victory came in the opener of a doubleheader at the Philadelphia Palestra. Twice-beaten Temple, Holiday Festival tournament champion and 12th-ranked nationally, won its eighth in a row 64-45 over Penn State in the second game.

Terps Coast, 74-59

Eleventh-ranked Maryland, a coasting 74-59 winner over Duke in an Atlantic Coast Conference game, was the only other rated team in action in the night's slim program.

Dayton, now 10-2 after a slow start, whipped Detroit 72-59, Louisville broke a three-game losing streak by cuffing St. Louis 67-55. Wichita took an 80-54 Missouri Conference test from North Texas State, and Don Flora set a school career record of 2,006 points with 25 during Washington and Lee's 73-54 victory over Randolph-Macon.

Dukes Top Tech

Duquesne stopped Carnegie Tech 68-51 and Pitt defeated Westminster of Pennsylvania, 72-57 in a doubleheader at Pittsburgh.

Western Kentucky defeated Oklahoma City 70-56. St. Francis of Pennsylvania won 72-50 over St. Bonaventure. George Washington edged Georgetown (DC) 80-78. Bowling Green was a 104-74 winner over Western Michigan.

Army and Navy found the winning combination, the Cadets over Rutgers 74-72 and the Middies over Gettysburg 63-45, and unbeaten Boston Univ. won its sixth, 85-63 over Northeastern. Fordham, with Jim Cunningham scoring 26, beat Syracuse for the first time in three years, 81-79.

Lakers Stay Celtic Cousin

By The Associated Press

If there is one team in the National Basketball Assn. that is a "cousin" of the Boston Celtics, it is the Minneapolis Lakers buried deep in the cellar of the Western Division.

While all the teams have taken turns at beating the once-powerful Lakers, only the Celtics can boast of a perfect record against the team coached by George Mikan.

When the Eastern Division leaders thumped the Lakers 107-87 last night it marked the seventh time this season that the Celtics have beaten Minneapolis.

The Boston victory, coupled with Detroit's 109-107 decision over Syracuse, moved the Celtics 6½ games in front of the Nats in the Eastern Division. New York's Knickerbockers broke a four-game losing streak and got back to the .500 mark by defeating Cincinnati 123-105.

Fans Wonder Wha' Hoppen In WVU Win

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — West Virginia's undefeated, top-ranked Mountaineers won their 11th basketball game of the season here last night, but there probably were many in the crowd of 6,602 who went home confused.

The nation's No. 1 team climaxed a sensational rally by coming from a 14-point deficit with eight minutes to play to a pulsating 76-75 victory on a field goal by Lloyd Sharrar with two seconds to play.

'Wha' Hoppen'

It was the action leading to Sharrar's winning shot that had the fans scratching their heads and asking "wha' hoppen'?" Here is what they saw.

Villanova, which had led at halftime 40-30 and 63-51 with eight minutes to go, was on top 75-74 and had the ball out of bounds under their own hoop following a West Virginia goal.

Referee John Stevens, at mid-court, motioned to the time keeper to stop the clock. He later explained he called time "for the good of the game." He didn't elaborate.

Counts Five Seconds

Under the hoop, referee Dan Smiddy, with his back to Stevens, counted five seconds and when Villanova failed to put the ball in play he took it away from the Wildcats and gave it to West Virginia. The Mountaineers passed the ball with Sharrar eventually dumping in his game winning shot.

The big question was: How could Smiddy count five seconds while Stevens called time out? Said Stevens:

"The five second rule still was in effect even though I had motioned for time. Smiddy was perfectly right." Smiddy agreed.

Coach Disagrees

Villanova Coach Al Severance, whose unranked, unheralded team came within an eyelash of the season's biggest upset naturally did not agree.

"Stevens called time out. Our boys tried to call time out. But Smiddy counted. The whole play was bungled."

West Virginia Coach Fred Schaus, naturally, had no comment on the play.

Schaus summed up his team's comeback win this way:

"Frank McGuire (North Carolina Coach) said he was impressed with our poise. I guess you have to add courage to that now."

Pirates, Hawks Pull Upsets In Spilling Eagles, Keyser

Two quints who hoped to hop back into Potomac Valley Conference contention last night had their hopes at least temporarily set back by a matter of seconds.

Fort Ashby's Eagles, who had seen their unbeaten league streak snapped at four games by Piedmont Monday evening, were "pirated" by the Paw Paw cagers in an overtime, 56-55, on the winners' court while Ridgeley's Blackhaws slipped by Keyser in the final 20 seconds, 58-54, at Ridgeley.

Both the Tornado and Eagles had been gunning to pick up ground on pacing Piedmont but, instead, have to wait until tomorrow night. The Eagles will be host to Ridgeley while Keyser is invaded by Elk Garden. Piedmont will face Moorefield on the Lions' court.

Scott's Shots Decide

Bill Scott's pair of penalty pitches with 20 seconds to go climaxed a come-from-behind win for the Hawks who marked up their third victory in five PVC attempts. The loss was the second in four loop appearances for the Tornado.

Ridgeley hopped off to a 10-0 lead before Keyser got hot and went ahead at the quarter, 16-14. The Blackhaws then trailed throughout most of the first half, leaving the floor at intermission behind, 33-28.

Ridgeley rallied to edge ahead 30-38 in the third stanza and led 44-43 at the close of the period.

Ronnie Smith paced all the scorers for the evening with 25 points for Keyser while Scott racked up 22 tallies for Ridgeley.

The Hawks had a phenomenal night from the floor, hitting on 23 of 54 shots, while Keyser connected on only 25 of 90 tosses.

Ridgeley's margin came at the foul line where the Hawks converted 12 of 23 chances to Keyser's 4 of 12 free throws.

West Virginia Lands Grid Ace

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Jim Bargeloh, one of West Virginia's most highly regarded scholastic football players in recent years, is expected to enroll at West Virginia University next fall, Mountaineer assistant coach Gene Corum announced.

Corum told the Morgantown Post that the Parkersburg's star's father, Charles Bargeloh, telephoned him last night and reported that his son would enter the university. Head Coach Art Lewis was out of town to attend a coaches' affair at Philadelphia, Pa.

The Bargeloh family visited the campus here during the weekend. Bargeloh won the state's 1957 Heisman trophy, symbolic of the most outstanding high school gridder in the state. The powerful 185-pound halfback scored 13 touchdowns for the big reds last season and gained more than 1,000 yards from scrimmage.

Terps Display Power In Rout Of Blue Devils

By The Associated Press

The Atlantic Coast Conference basketball schedule offers two games tonight, with Virginia at North Carolina headlining the action. In the other, South Carolina visits Wake Forest.

Maryland last night displayed the power that has made it the nation's 11th ranked team and rolled over Duke 74-49. No other ACC teams saw action.

Four In Double Figures

Four players scored in the double figures for the victorious Terps: Al Bunge and John Nacinick got 13 apiece and Charles McNeil and Nick Davis got 11 each. Duke's high scorer was Bobby Joe Harris with 18. No other Blue Devil scored more than 4 points.

The victory was Maryland's eighth of 10 starts. Duke's record now is 5-5.

Cavaliers Show Improvement

Virginia, a team whose improvement can almost be traced game by game, comes to the Tar Heel home court with a 6-4 record and tied with North Carolina State and Maryland for second place in the ACC, each with 3-1 conference marks.

However, the Cavaliers will be meeting a team undefeated in its last 23 home games, spanning three seasons. The Tar Heels (10-1) are on top of the ACC standings and are ranked third in the nation.

Terps, Tar Heels Seen In Defensive Battle

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — One of the tightest defensive battles in the young history of the Atlantic Coast Conference is expected at College Park, Md., Saturday when Maryland, 11th ranked nationally, entertains North Carolina, third-ranked.

Latest ACC Service Bureau figures show the two rivals locked in a close struggle for defensive honors in the conference, the Tar Heels having yielded only 57.3 points a game and Maryland 58.4.

Offensively, North Carolina is averaging 71.4 points a game, second in the ACC to Virginia's 73.0. The Tar Heels boast the ACC's second best field goal shooting percentage, .438, and Maryland is No. 2 in free throw shooting at .704.

N.C. State leads field goal accuracy at .442 and Virginia tops free throw shooting at .747.

South Carolina is No. 1 in rebounding with 46.5 recoveries a game. North Carolina is second there at 44.3 a game.

St. John's Plays Kingsley Today In Church Loop

Two of the top-ranked quints in the Central YMCA Sunday School Basketball League's American Division will clash today at 8 o'clock on the "Y" court as St. John's Lutheran (7-2) opposes Kingsley Methodist (8-1).

One other contest is on tap with South Cumberland Salvation Army (3-6) meeting Central Methodist (3-5) at 5:55, also on the "Y" hardwoods.

First Baptist gained a tie for third place yesterday in the American Division by whipping Trinity Lutheran, 41-24. The triumph gave the Baptist crew an 8-2 mark to deadlock them with First Methodist.

In the other tilt St. Paul's Lutheran hit the .500 mark for 10 games by trampling LaVale Methodist, 47-16.

Top gunner for First Baptist yesterday was Kelly with 15 markers while G. Fogle also had 15 tallies for Trinity Lutheran. Best for St. Paul's was B. Ritchey with 17 markers. High man for LaVale Methodist was Twigg with 12 of his team's 16 points.

Wilson Of Lions' Pro Coach Of Year

By JOE REICHLER

The Associated Press

George Wilson, the Detroit Lion's 11th-hour fill-in when Buddy Parker quit last August, was voted today Professional Coach of the Year by a panel of football writers in the annual Associated Press poll.

The 43-year-old Wilson earned the award when he directed the Lions to the National Football League championship with a 59-14 rout of the Cleveland Browns after a poor start which saw the Detroit team win only three of its first six games.

Wilson, a former Chicago Bears end, received 15 of the 36 votes cast to edge out Cleveland's Paul Brown by five votes. Frank Albert of the San Francisco Forty-Niners, who lost the Western Division title to Detroit in a playoff, finished third with six votes. Webb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts had four votes and Parker, who switched to the Pittsburgh Steelers after bolting Detroit, got one.

No coach ever took over a football team under more difficult circumstances than Wilson. He was given the Lions' head post less than 24 hours after Parker dramatically walked out on the club just three days before the team's first exhibition game last August.

"This is the worst squad I've ever been associated with," Parker claimed. "I can't handle it any longer. This is a team that's dead. I'm getting out."

Off To Slow Start

Wilson stepped into the job after eight seasons as an assistant coach in Detroit. He wasn't off to a blazing start, either. The Lions split their six exhibition games. Then the Lions lost the opener to Baltimore 24-14. The Lions won their next three, but appeared to drop out of the race when they were beaten by Los Angeles and the 49ers to make their record a modest 3-3 at the halfway mark.

In the stretch run, Detroit, with a series of amazing finishes, won five of six. That gave the Lions a tie with the 49ers for the Western Division title. In the playoff, the Lions put on a dramatic second half spurt to win 31-27. The mauling of the Browns followed the next week.

Cop Refuses To Testify In Wire Hearing

Former Baltimore Sergeant Claims To Be Under Orders

BALTIMORE (AP)—A suspended police sergeant refused today to testify before a city council committee probing wiretapping activities. His attorney said his testimony "may or may not incriminate" police Commissioner James M. Hebron.

Amos I. Meyers, representing Sgt. Edgar Kirby, also said he was afraid the sergeant's testimony might "prejudice his position" when his case is heard by Hebron.

Meyers charged that his client had been ordered by the commissioner not to discuss the case. He said Kirby would testify, however, if Hebron released him from the order or if the council directed him to testify under subpoena.

The police commissioner denied gagging Kirby, who was suspended after refusing to take a lie-detector test during a State police probe of possible corruption in the city police department.

"He is permitted to do what he wants to," said Hebron, "but I will not direct him to testify."

Councilman Solomon Liss chairman of the Judiciary Committee, asked the commissioner if he would assure Kirby that the sergeant's case would not be prejudiced by any testimony he might give the committee.

Hebron then huddled with Clayton A. Dietrich, assistant attorney general assigned to the police department, and replied Kirby's testimony would not be used against him later "so long as he tells the truth."

Meyers declared this was not "enough immunity."

Earlier in the hearing the committee was told by Hebron that police had tapped telephone wires about 12 times without necessary court orders. He said he knew the wiretaps were being made but did not know that Rackets Division officials had failed to obtain court permission.

Meyers had accused the commissioner of participating in such illegal wiretaps.

GOP NOMINEE? — Mayor John A. Derr of Frederick has been mentioned in speculation as a Republican nominee to succeed Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

Plans For New Church Passed By Members

The congregation of St. Paul's Lutheran Church last night approved plans for the new church that will be built on the site of the old Roman home.

J. Alfred Hamme, York, Pa., architect, has prepared the plans for the new edifice. He has informed the congregation that plans and specification for the new building will be ready for the contractors by January 29.

The contractors will be allowed about 30 days to prepare their bids which will be received about March 1.

The new church, expected to cost about $600,000, will be of Colonial architecture.

Wreckers have been removing the old Roman home since December 18 and are expected to finish the job in about a week.

Rev. John F. Sammel, pastor reported to the congregation that the communicant strength of St. Paul's increased 86 during 1957 to a level of 562 at the year's end.

The Men's Brotherhood sponsored a new Boy Scout troop during the year.

Five vestrymen were elected by the congregation last night. They are Chris Elder, Delbert Kitzmiller, Dr. Charles Kopp, Monroe MacKenzie and Donald Moffatt.

There are 12 members of the vestry, four elected each year for three years. One of the five elected last night will serve a one-year term but that has not yet been decided.

Beall Thanks County GOP For Backing

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, of Frostburg, who filed yesterday for the Republican nomination for re-election, has forwarded a letter of thanks to the Allegany County Republican Committee for its unanimous endorsement of him as a candidate.

The letter, received by James S. Getty, chairman of the county committee, said:

"Being a candidate for, and holding a state-wide elective political office, it is most necessary that any candidate get the support from all sections of the state, and there is no support more desirable than to have the full endorsement of his home county."

"So, naturally I was most pleased and quite gratified when I received your letter telling me that the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County had unanimously endorsed my candidacy for re-election, and asked that I file."

"I can say that I have enjoyed the work in the Congress and would like to be a candidate for re-election. The fact that my home county has endorsed me will certainly be most conducive toward helping me make an affirmative decision."

"Will you please express my wholehearted gratitude to the members of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, and tell them that I deeply appreciate the confidence they have shown in me."

Check Changers Held For Trial

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Two men were held in $1,000 bail each today on charges of raising the amount of expense checks by adding another zero to the amount.

Police said the two, Thomas Bryan and William Brannock, about 30, had been altering the small checks issued them at the sawmill where they worked since last August. The amount involved was about $480, the company said.

Trial was set for next Monday in magistrate's court.

W. Va. Senate

tee, meanwhile, planned to launch preliminary work today on a proposed general revenue operating budget of about $1,659,000 as sent to the Legislature by the Board of Public Works.

Chairman Glenn Jackson (D-Logan) said the committee would begin by asking "any state department that has a payroll" for complete data on its expenditures for the fiscal year's first six months, or through Dec. 31.

The committee will take a close look at how salary increases provided by the 1957 Legislature have been used, and whether additional adjustments either upward or downward appear justified.

The budget sent to the Legislature for the year to begin next July 1 included no general new pay increases, although it proposed a 10-per cent boost in appropriations for salaries at state mental institutions.

Jackson said he also was going to ask "the governor or someone" to detail savings in state government operations he has read about in speeches and statements by administration officials.

"We want to know where any such savings are so that we can Hofferberg, First District — in short, most of the top-level figures, Jackson said. "If any upward adjustments are possible, I'd favor directing toward the mental institutions and salaries at the colleges."

There were no immediate plans today for subcommittee of the finance group to make trips to various state institutions. The budget contains no money for capital improvements, and Jackson said he thought nothing new could be learned from jaunts such as those taken in the past.

Senate President Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) said the leadership did not envision any such subcommittee traveling at all at the moment, although he added the Senate's Penitentiary Committee might go into the field.

Phone Rate Boost Held Up By PSC

State Auditor Says $5,000,000 Could Be Cut By C&P

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Public Service Commission says it will extend a 120-day suspension in increased rates proposed by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland.

The commission said the extension, for a period not to exceed 30 days, would be made when the present suspension expires Jan. 13.

The announcement was made yesterday at the conclusion of hearings on the increase of $8,255,000 the C. & P. is asking from its more than two million Maryland subscribers.

PSC Chief Auditor E. Edward McLean, a witness yesterday, testified that as much as 5 million dollars could be cut from the company's request and the utility's investment return would still be a "fair 6 per cent."

The company said its proposed increase would give it a return of 6.5 per cent.

The company's rate proposal is tied in with a plan for wider calling privileges, eliminating some charges on calls between many local areas.

New Charter Slated For Cub Pack 16

Recently organized Cub Pack 16, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of Johnson Heights School, will receive its charter Thursday evening, January 16, during a meeting of the PTA.

Carl Wagner, organizational chairman of Nemacolin District, Boy Scouts of America, announced the charter will be presented to William A. Taylor, institutional representative. The new cub pack has a roster of 43 members.

Willis V. Smith, scout executive of Potomac Council, Nemacolin District, will be present at the ceremonies.

Den mothers include Mesdames Florence Taylor, Juanita Kirby, Jean P. Keller, Betty Thomas, Jennie Sewell, Betty Cox, Faith Bradley and Freda Green. Chairman of the pack committee is J. Fred Goss, with Ralph E. Keiter, Leland H. Taylor, Norman Curtis, Ray Hahne and Charles Thomas as members of the committee.

William Scott is cubmaster and Richard Herz his assistant. Mr. Taylor pointed out that due to the high interest in scouting at the school, a Scout troop will probably be formed within the next three months.

"Being a candidate for, and holding a state-wide elective political office, it is most necessary that any candidate get the support from all sections of the state, and there is no support more desirable than to have the full endorsement of his home county."

"So, naturally I was most pleased and quite gratified when I received your letter telling me that the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County had unanimously endorsed my candidacy for re-election, and asked that I file."

"I can say that I have enjoyed the work in the Congress and would like to be a candidate for re-election. The fact that my home county has endorsed me will certainly be most conducive toward helping me make an affirmative decision."

"Will you please express my wholehearted gratitude to the members of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, and tell them that I deeply appreciate the confidence they have shown in me."

Check Changers Held For Trial

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP)—Two men were held in $1,000 bail each today on charges of raising the amount of expense checks by adding another zero to the amount.

Police said the two, Thomas Bryan and William Brannock, about 30, had been altering the small checks issued them at the sawmill where they worked since last August. The amount involved was about $480, the company said.

Trial was set for next Monday in magistrate's court.

tee, meanwhile, planned to launch preliminary work today on a proposed general revenue operating budget of about $1,659,000 as sent to the Legislature by the Board of Public Works.

Chairman Glenn Jackson (D-Logan) said the committee would begin by asking "any state department that has a payroll" for complete data on its expenditures for the fiscal year's first six months, or through Dec. 31.

The committee will take a close look at how salary increases provided by the 1957 Legislature have been used, and whether additional adjustments either upward or downward appear justified.

The budget sent to the Legislature for the year to begin next July 1 included no general new pay increases, although it proposed a 10-per cent boost in appropriations for salaries at state mental institutions.

Jackson said he also was going to ask "the governor or someone" to detail savings in state government operations he has read about in speeches and statements by administration officials.

"We want to know where any such savings are so that we can Hofferberg, First District — in short, most of the top-level figures, Jackson said. "If any upward adjustments are possible, I'd favor directing toward the mental institutions and salaries at the colleges."

There were no immediate plans today for subcommittee of the finance group to make trips to various state institutions. The budget contains no money for capital improvements, and Jackson said he thought nothing new could be learned from jaunts such as those taken in the past.

Senate President Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) said the leadership did not envision any such subcommittee traveling at all at the moment, although he added the Senate's Penitentiary Committee might go into the field.

In addition to the Lincoln Day observance the dinner will be a testimonial dinner to U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who yesterday filed for re-election to that office, and other Republican candidates on the state-wide ticket.

This final match was based on total points and a sporting three-no-trump bid that he brought home helped their cause materially.

Harvey won the opening spade lead with the king and saw that he would have troubles. It seemed very likely that West would have the diamond ace for his overall and Harvey needed to bring home either the queen of spades or the king of diamonds to make his contract.

His first play was to lay down his ace of hearts and right then and there West threw the hand out of the window. He played the ten of hearts!

Now Harvey ran all of dummy's clubs and discarded three hearts, and a diamond. West let a diamond and two spades go and now Harvey threw him in with the king of hearts.

West could lead anything he chose but he could not stop the game any more.

Why should West have dropped the king of hearts on Harvey's ace? He should have seen that South would want to keep East out of the lead and that if he held the ace and queen of hearts he would surely have tried a finesse. Hence, East would hold the queen and it behooved West to get out of his partner's way pronto.

New Student Standards Advocated

College President Would Stiffen Admission Rules

HUNTINGTON — President Stewart H. Smith of Marshall College proposed today stiffer admission requirements at West Virginia's 11 state-supported institutions of higher learning.

He suggested that the state provide one to two years of vocational and technical training for high school graduates whose academic records indicate they could not do college work.

Dr. Smith proposed that West Virginia University, Marshall and the other nine state-supported colleges only be required to admit "those who were graduated in the upper half of their classes and require those of lower rank to prove their ability by passing reasonable entrance examinations."

He said, "Students admitted to college should have achieved reasonable competence in reading, writing, spelling, mathematics and science."

The state schools now must admit any West Virginia high school graduate.

Dr. Smith called this a "useless expenditure of state funds" which he said "tends to lower the general level of standards in the institutions."

He cited as unsound reasons for the unlimited admission of high school graduates:

The institution seeks numbers regardless of quality; the college is a democratic institution and therefore should be open to all, and any taxpayer's child who is a high school graduate is entitled to enter a publicly supported institution.

Dr. Smith said most graduates from the lower half of high school classes fail to graduate from college.

To fulfill the educational needs of those students whom he believes should not go to college, Smith proposed the expanded vocational and technical training program.

St. Luke's Elects Four To Council

The congregation of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church last night elected four new members to the church council.

They are Charles Smith, elder; George Smith and Wilbur Sills, deacons, and Louis Baker Jr., trustee. They succeeded Joseph Pelleri, Louis Baker Sr., Albert Tomsko and Louis Hoffman, respectively, who could not succeed themselves.

The congregation also adopted a budget of nearly $37,000 for current expenses and benevolent activities. Donald Mason, chairman of the finance committee, reported that $62,000 was added to the building fund last year, and that total giving amounted to $96,000.

Charles Smith, chairman of a committee on disposing of the present church property in favor of a new church to be built on Frederick Street, reported two prospects are interested in the present site.

Edward Eichner, chairman of the education and evangelism committee, reported 73 new adult members and 45 children joined the church last year.

Rev. William R. Snyder, pastor, summed up highlights of church activities in the past year.

Appointment Clarification Bill Goes Before West Virginia Senate

CHARLESTON — A bill to clarify the procedure for appointment of boards in public service districts organized to provide water and sewerage facilities went into the Senate today.

Introduced by Majority Leader Martin (D-Berkeley), the proposal covered one of the 20 items — in addition to the annual budget — in Gov. Underwood's call for the 30 day session of the Legislature which opened yesterday.

The new sections to existing statutes, it was explained, are necessary to remove certain statutory conflicts which have been outlined by bond attorneys and others in connection with district efforts to obtain federal loans for such projects.

The new bill would validate prior proceedings by county courts in creation of districts, inclusion of additional territory in them and appointment of board members.

It would spell out the public service districts' authority to accept loans, grants or temporary advances from federal agencies or private parties in construction or acquisition of all or part of water or sewerage systems.

Another bill introduced by Martin and Minority Leader Carrigan (R-Marshall) would enable the State Supreme Court of Appeals to fix the salary of its law librarian.

Current law places a ceiling on the salary — the present maximum being $8,000 — and in effect provides for fixing of the librarian's compensation by the Legislature.

That bill also represented an item in the governor's legislative call.
